

ECO DESIGN GROUP

Brought to You by Chamber of Eco Commerce

Eco Design Group (EDG) at Chamber of Eco Commerce (CEC), is an international team of designers and Eco Innovation and Commerce experts, that create, manufacture, and market high-quality products. The group was established by a group of experts devoted to preserve nature and advance cultural heritage in communities worldwide.

The group is passionate about the collection. Each product communicates a message and comes to life when worn, each bearing the distinctive marks of the designer's culture. An inspirational combination of design, message and vision lie at the heart of every item of garment, jewelry, accessory, etc. communicating its wearer's personality and self-expression. The collections appeal aesthetically, culturally, ethically, and creatively. The designs are rooted in many cultures, simultaneously revealing new stories and reviving forgotten tales, and uniting us regardless of our roots, nationality, or beliefs.

The designers are top professionals in their expertise. Production facilities operate where high quality raw materials and local labor are available, and recycled materials are used, whenever possible.

All products are made with a combination of high skilled craftsmanship and technology. Experienced and skilled production staff makes sure that products are of high quality before parting from production.

The company protects its strong brand with care. This can be seen in all the operations, including manufacturing, sales, as well as in marketing. Additionally, close attention is constantly paid to the fair trade and environment.

The group grants awards to support and promote local cultures in communities where they operate. This cultural support can be awarded for research and publication activity relating to folklore carried out by private individuals and organizations, and for the performing arts and artistic work.
